EARLY YEARS MANAGEMENT LETTER 2023

The first month of the academic year kick-started with lots of enthusiasm and excitement among our tiny tots. The first week saw our babies comfortably adapting to the new surroundings and getting familiar with the class routines. Each week they are taking baby steps towards being independent and that itself is a small milestone worth mentioning.

We introduced our little ones to the world of Alphabet with the letter 'Aa' and 'Bb'. They learnt the phonic sounds of these words through stories and hands on activities. In Numeracy our babies were made aware of the difference in the concept 'Big' and Small' through live examples and crafts. The importance and value of number Zero was introduced to them. In Evs, our toddlers learnt all about themselves, their gender, their family, their body parts and how to keep themselves clean through various activities and interesting PPts. We also stressed on their emotional and social skills by having number of interactive games and activities. We also introduced them to different emotions and expressions and how to use and deal with it. This month we touched upon the expression 'Smile' and 'Tantrum'. They explored their creative talents through various art activities like scribbling, finger printing. Tearing and pasting, crushing paper emphasised on their fine motor development skills, Yoga and PE classes aimed at enhancing their physical and mental well-being

"Happiness lies in the joy of achievement and the thrill of creative effort" – Franklin D Roosevelt

Our heart swells with pride when we see the happy faces of our little ones in their creative pursuits during class activities. The month ended on a happy note.
